

September Board Report

August and September were quite the whirlwind. Between the fair, the rodeo, and Labor Day, things have been busy here in Cole Camp.

Self-initiated activity decreased this month in part due to all the events that required police staffing. However, officers still were out conducting business checks, writing citations, and being seen in the community. Additionally calls for service saw an increase of 41% this month. As calls for service increase, generally, proactive and self-initiated activity will drop since officers cannot spend as much time being proactive because they are dealing with calls.

Now that the fair is over we set our sights towards next year and making sure our officers are trained and prepared for whatever may come their way.

Another community event is in the works, be sure to pay attention to our Facebook page for more details!

Respectfully submitted,

Chris Horn

Chief of Police
